

Miller Files for Second Four-Year Term

Councilman Ken Miller Monday filed for re-election to the Torrance City Council. Miller, 43, is a native son who is completing his first, four-year term in office.

"My years on the council have been challenging. Our community's rapid growth to become the third largest city in Los Angeles county has created innumerable problems. However, I believe the council's business-like approach during these years has created the climate needed to solve most and to take positive steps toward the solution of those yet to come," Miller said.

He pointed to a tax rate in Torrance that has been stabilized during his time in office.

"This was due, in part, to the council's foresight in encouraging new retail stores to locate here. Tax revenues from retail sales are now becoming a significant source of income for the city. These are having beneficial effects on our property taxes," Miller said.

A source of pride during his term, he noted, is the Beautification Commission which he helped create.

"These citizens are actively promoting the esthetic improvement of Torrance. It is my hope to continue to encourage additional forward steps in the beautification of our community, and this is one reason I am actively seeking re-election to the council," Miller said.

Another challenge met during his term in office, he pointed out, has been to provide additional recreation facilities for "our youth and our senior citizens."

Miller added that a long-range plan has been put into action which is "banking" — setting aside — land for future parks and recreational facilities — pressures we probably can't fully understand today."

"I suspect that this program will be one of the most memorable for this city council when a predicted 250,000 population is crowded into this area in the future, putting unheard pressures on like approach is having beneficial effects on the local economy.

"We've created a favorable business climate in Torrance that has encouraged many new businesses and industries to move into the city... to build new facilities here."

The City Councilman added that the community's image had been favorably upgraded during his time in office and that the council's business-like approach is having beneficial effects on the local economy.

Lyman Makes It Official; Files for Senate Contest

Accompanied by his wife and two daughters, David K. Lyman, a Torrance city councilman and attorney at law, made an important visit to the office of the County Registrar of Voters, Monday.

A candidate for the new 32nd Senatorial District seat,

Lyman filed his declaration of intention to be a candidate that officially put him in the running.

Lyman proposes some vital changes in the new district which he described as "sadly neglected in many areas," running from Watts and Willowbrook all the way south to San Pedro. Lyman said, "I intend to work full time on a sound study of the problems and will make a concerted attack upon solving them."

A Democrat, Lyman has been a member of the Los Angeles County Democratic Central Committee to which he was first elected in 1962, and has served as chairman of the 68th Assembly District delegation. As a Torrance city councilman since 1964, he has been a champion of the Mexican-American community in this city. He is a member of the Southern California Rapid Transit District City Selection Committee.

As a state senator, Lyman would recommend restudy and enactment of the defeated Unruh-Petris tax reform bill which he has called "the first major tax reform bill to come out of the legislature since the 1920's." Lyman called for state help in finding and creating new jobs, training and retraining programs in job fields where there is a demand, and state aid in creating a rapid transit system in deprived areas.

Of his campaign, Lyman said, "I intend to base my campaign on a platform of positive representation of the needs of the people and provide strong, vigorous leadership."

HE FILED . . . David K. Lyman, Torrance City Councilman and a candidate for election to the new 32nd State Senate seat, leaves the office of Registrar of Voters Benjamin A. Hite with his family after filing for the Democratic nomination. He will face five or more area Democrats for the party's nomination at the June primaries.
